Introduction

Pronouns

Some learners believe that they understand everything about pronouns, because they know that pronouns replace nouns in a sentence and because they are familiar with the personal pronouns: I, you, he, she, it, we, and they. But the story about pronouns is much longer and more complicated than that.

For one thing, there are many types of pronouns. They range from the personal pronouns that everyone identifies with relative ease to possessive pronouns, demonstrative pronouns, relative pronouns, reflexive pronouns, reciprocal pronouns, and others. The list should not frighten you. The names may seem meaningless to you now, but with some experience with the pronouns and adequate practice, they will make sense to you.

In this book you will encounter the various types of pronouns. They will be described for you, and they will be illustrated with examples. Then you will have the opportunity to practice with them in a variety of exercises.

The exercises appear in different forms in order to give you practice with the pronouns from different angles. Some of the exercises ask you to select the word that completes a sentence correctly:

Jim had an accident with him/his/me/myself new car.

Others ask you to complete a sentence with any appropriate pronoun:

I hit Tom, and then he hit me back.

And still others ask for you to write an original sentence that includes a specific target phrase:

Target phrase: one another
They loved one another very much.

The end result will be that you will have developed a better understanding of English pronouns and will have increased your effectiveness in using pronouns.

Prepositions

You probably know what each of these words mean: to, get, out, of, my, sight. But when the words are combined as a single phrase they become a verb with a new meaning:

New Phrase
Get out of my sight!

New Meaning Leave!

The prepositions in that phrase had a lot to do with changing the meaning.

There is a rather old-fashioned rule that says that you should never end a sentence with a preposition. In general, it's not a bad rule to follow. But there are times when the rule just doesn't work. Winston Churchill, the famed Prime Minister of Great Britain and a highly competent writer and speaker, once joked about the difficulty of conforming to that rule about prepositions when he said:

“That is nonsense up with which I shall not put.”

Sometimes a preposition just has to fall at the end of a sentence in order to make sense and not to sound awkward. You will encounter prepositions here in practical forms and in forms that conform to contemporary English.

This book will guide you through the maze of prepositional types and uses and clarify their function in a sentence. They will be described and illustrated for you, and then you will have ample opportunity to practice with them in the exercises. And, as with pronouns, there will be numerous kinds of exercises for prepositions.

Take advantage of the contents of this book and increase your ability to use pronouns and prepositions effectively and accurately. This will be an important step in increasing your skill in speaking and writing English.

PART I

PRONOUNS

Pronouns are almost all very small words. This fact causes some people to think that pronouns are, therefore, a small and unimportant part of the language. But the opposite is true. Understanding the various types of pronouns and how they are used is very important for developing accuracy in English.

Every pronoun shares the same simple characteristic: it is a word that replaces a noun.

Noun	Pronoun
John is young.	He is young.
Six men were hurt.	Six were hurt.
These words make no sense.	These make no sense.
I really enjoyed the party .	I really enjoyed myself .

You should have noticed in the list above that only the first sentence changed from a noun to a familiar pronoun form—a subject or personal pronoun. The other three pairs of examples illustrate that there is something more to pronouns than just substituting a personal pronoun for a noun.

This does not make personal pronouns unimportant. In fact, knowing how personal pronouns function in the language is a good basis for discovering how other types of pronouns function. Looking carefully at personal pronouns will be the first step toward developing an understanding of other types of pronouns and toward acquiring greater skill in using pronouns, which will make you a more effective user of English.

Pronouns as the Subject of a Sentence

The first person pronouns refer to one's self. The second person pronouns refer to others to whom you are speaking. And the third person pronouns are substitutes for all other nouns. The pronouns that can act as the subject of a sentence (and are for this reason called subject, or personal, pronouns) are listed in the chart below.

	Singular	Plural
First Person	I	we
Second Person	you	you
Third Person	he, she, it	they

Note that you has both a singular and plural meaning: "Mary, you are a great athlete." "Tom and Mary, you have to study more."

In addition, there are two more pronouns that are used to ask questions about people (who) and about things (what).

The pronoun he can replace nouns that refer to males:

the man → he

a boy → he

the doctor → he

The pronoun she can replace nouns that refer to females:

the woman → she

a girl → she

the doctor → she

The pronoun it can replace nouns that refer to objects:

the rock → it

a building → it

his nose → it

The pronoun they can replace nouns that refer to plurals:

the girls → they men → they two rocks → they

The pronoun who can replace animate nouns to form a question:

The man became ill. → Who became ill?
 A few women went shopping. → Who went shopping?

The pronoun what can replace inanimate nouns to form a question:

Our house burned down. → What burned down?
 His tools are in the garage. → What is in the garage?

There is one notable exception to the rule that pronouns are derived by the gender of nouns. It is common to refer to a boat or sometimes an automobile as a female:

“What a beautiful sailboat! She’s a real beauty.”
 “What about the Titanic?” “She sank in the Atlantic in 1912.”
 “She’s been a good old car, but it’s time to trade her in.”

Note that a noun or pronoun combined with I can be replaced by we:

you and I = we she and I = we
 the boy and I = we
 the girls and I = we

The subject pronouns determine the form of the verb in the sentence. In the present tense most verbs require an -s ending when the subject is a third person singular pronoun or noun: he has, the girl sings. The other pronouns do not require an ending on the verb. The only exception to this is the verb to be, which has a more complicated conjugation than other verbs:

	to come	to help	to be
I	come	help	am
you	come	help	are
he, she, it	comes	helps	is we	come	help	are
you	come	help	are
they	come	help	are

In the past tense the subject pronouns do not require an additional ending on the verb beyond the past tense formation. There is only one exception to this rule, and, again, it is the verb to be. Look at these examples in the past tense:

	to come	to help	to be
I	came	helped	was
you	came	helped	were
he, she, it	came	helped	was we	came	helped	were
you	came	helped	were
they	came	helped	were

There is another second person singular pronoun. It is thou. It is considered archaic and is only found in very old documents or literature and in certain versions of the Bible. Its forms are:

Subject pronoun: thou

Object pronoun: thee

Possessive pronouns: thy, thine

As the subject of a present tense sentence, thou requires an -st ending on the verb: thou hast, thou canst. You should be aware of this pronoun's existence, but it will not be considered further in this book.

----------	-----

Circle the pronoun that correctly completes each sentence.

1. We/She/I has to go home at five o'clock.
2. When do you/she/he leave on your trip?
3. I/She/They were frightened during the storm.
4. I/You/We am planning on early retirement.
5. Why are it/you/he crying?
6. They/Who/We wants to arrange a surprise party for her?
7. He/You/We was sound asleep.
8. What/I/They needs to be repaired right away?
9. Where does I/you/she go every afternoon?
10. They/She/He earn a very good salary.

----------	-----

Rewrite each sentence, changing the italicized noun phrase to the appropriate pronoun.

1. My little sister is such a sweet child.

2. These boys just can't seem to get along.

3. Where did the sleepy soldiers find a place to rest?

4. My friends and I spent a week camping in the mountains.
5. The new school burned down last night.
6. Where is John from?
7. Two jet planes roared overhead.
8. Why is Ms. Brown laughing?
9. Does your arm still hurt?
10. Tom and I can help you today.

You should be aware that personal pronouns used as subjects can form contractions. Contractions are formed with pronouns and certain verbs. Look at the examples that follow:

Pronoun	have	has	is	are	am	would	will
I	I've				I'm	I'd	I'll
you	you've			you're		you'd	you'll he		he's	he's			he'd	he'll she		she's	she's			she'd	she'll it		it's	it's
we	we've			we're		we'd	we'll they	they've			they're		they'd	they'll who		who's	who's			who'd	who'll
what		what's	what's

There is one special contraction formed from the words let us: let's.

Other contractions are a combination of a verb and the negative word not:

Verb	Contraction	Verb	Contraction
are	aren't	must	mustn't
can	can't	need	needn't could	couldn't	should	shouldn't did	didn't	was	wasn't
do	don't	were	weren't has	hasn't	will	won't have	haven't	would	wouldn't is	isn't

Pronouns in a contraction should only be used in complete utterances and not in an elliptical phrase (a phrase in which information is understood):

He'll arrive here on the five-thirty bus.
I'm sure tomorrow will be a better day for you.

But it is common to respond to someone's question with an elliptical phrase. An elliptical phrase is one that leaves out certain words that are understood from the words in the question. In elliptical phrases contractions should not be used, unless the contraction is the combination of a verb and the negative word not. Let's look at some examples:

Question: Is he going to work today?
Answer: Yes, he's going to work today.
Elliptical answer: Yes, he is. (no contraction)

Question: Are you afraid of mice?
Answer: Yes, I'm afraid of mice.
Elliptical answer: Yes, I am. (no contraction)

Question: Did she have enough money?
Answer: No, she didn't have enough money.
Elliptical answer: No, she didn't. (combination of a verb and not)

exercise1-3

Write an elliptical answer to each of the following questions.

1. Do you like living in San Francisco?

2. Is she a good programmer?

3. Have they ever seen the Grand Canyon?

4. Was he always such a complainer?

5. Am I permitted to study in this room?

6. Aren't we spending too much time on this problem?

7. Should she really buy such an expensive car?

8 Pronouns

8. Can you understand what he's talking about?

9. Shouldn't he rest for a while?

10. Will they have to spend the night here?

Pronouns as Direct Objects

Although nouns do not change when they are used as direct objects in a sentence, most pronouns do.

Subject	Direct Object
I	me
you (singular)	you (singular)
he, she, it	him, her, it
we	us
you (plural)	you (plural)
they	them
who	whom
what	what

You should be aware that in casual language, most people substitute who for whom as the direct object form.

Now look at the pronouns when they are used as direct objects in a sentence:

Bill saw me at the bank yesterday.

I like you a lot. (singular you)

Mom sent her to the store.

We bought it a week ago.

She found us hiding in the garage.

I'll help you. (plural you)

Michael warned them about the danger.

Whom did you meet at the party? (or, in casual language, Who did you meet at the party?)

What are they making for supper?

Look at these examples that show what occurs when direct object nouns are changed to direct object pronouns:

Jim tried to kiss the girl. → Jim tried to kiss her.
 They really like their former coach. → They really like him.
 Who threw the ball to him? → Who threw it to him?
 You'll find the new tools in the shed. → You'll find them in the shed.

exercise2-1

Fill in the blank with the word or phrase shown in parentheses. Make any necessary changes to form the pronouns.

1. Why would the police want to arrest _____ (we)?
2. My uncle visited _____ (I) in Chicago.
3. Did the doctor ask _____ (you singular) about the accident?
4. John caught _____ (he) stealing a bicycle.
5. Can you join _____ (she and I) for dinner?
6. I just can't believe _____ (it)!
7. How can I reach _____ (you plural) after you move?
8. The boys watched _____ (she) all afternoon.
9. You can help _____ (Tom and I) clean up the kitchen.
10. _____ (Who) should I call about a leaky faucet?

exercise2-2

Rewrite each sentence and change the direct object noun phrase to a pronoun.

1. My sister liked Jim's roommate a lot.

2. Can you understand that foreign language?

3. I bought several CDs at the mall.

4. When did you first meet my brother and me?

5. I spent a lot of money.

6. We used to visit the twins regularly.

7. I'd like to introduce my girlfriend Anita.

Pronouns as Indirect Objects

Nouns used as indirect objects look the same as when they are used as subjects or direct objects. Look at these examples with the phrase the man.

SUBJECT: The man is a stranger to me.

DIRECT OBJECT: Do you know the man?

INDIRECT OBJECT: I gave the man a few dollars.

But pronouns change. Pronouns used as indirect objects have the same form as pronouns used as direct objects.

Subject	Direct Object	Indirect Object
I	me	me
you (singular)	you (singular)	you (singular)
he, she, it	him, her, it	him, her, it
we	us	us
you (plural)	you (plural)	you (plural)
they	them	them
who	whom	whom what	what	what

Notice how indirect object nouns change to pronouns:

Mike gave the girls the tickets. → Mike gave them the tickets.

I bought James a new shirt. → I bought him a new shirt.

Did Bill send your sister a postcard? → Did Bill send her a postcard?

3-1

Change the italicized indirect objects to pronouns.

1. He won't sell Jim the car.

2. Did you bring your girlfriend a gift?

3. I loaned the Smith family a hundred dollars.

4. Please give Ms. Garcia a copy of the will.

5. I'm going to buy the children some new pajamas.

6. James sent his elderly aunt a bouquet of roses.

7. She wrote her boyfriend several letters.

exercise3-2

Fill in the blank with the word or phrase shown in parentheses. Make any necessary changes to form the pronouns.

1. I wanted to give _____ (you singular) something nice.
2. Please send _____ (she) a telegram with the news.
3. They brought _____ (we) breakfast in bed.
4. Can you lend _____ (I) a few dollars until tomorrow?
5. You ought to write _____ (he) a letter every week.
6. She'll buy _____ (you plural) new socks and underwear.
7. Mr. Brown gave _____ (Jim and I) a lecture on politics again.
8. I'm sending _____ (they) the directions to our new house.
9. Tell _____ (I) a story.
10. Who bought _____ (we) these tools?

Pronouns in a Prepositional Phrase

Nouns do not change their form when used in a prepositional phrase. But pronouns do, and they take the same form they do as direct or indirect objects.

Form of Pronouns That Follow Prepositions

me	us	whom you (singular)	you (plural)	what him, her, it	them

In sentences, the pronouns following a preposition look like this:

Repeat this sentence after me.

She wants to speak with you. (singular)

I took a picture of him.

What do you know about her?

There's something hiding in it.

What do they want from us?

The thief was sitting between you. (plural)

Is that a deer coming up to them?

If the pronoun is who or what, the preposition often stands at the end of the question in casual speech, and who may be substituted for whom.

With whom were you chatting?

Who were you chatting with?

On what did you place the book?

What did you place the book on?

exercise

4-1

Fill in the blank with the word or phrase shown in parentheses. Make any necessary changes to form the pronouns.

1. They were asking questions about _____ (you singular).
2. I received several letters from _____ (she).
3. From _____ (who) did you borrow the money?
4. _____ (What) were they all laughing about?
5. Someone threw a rock at _____ (I).
6. This problem has nothing to do with _____ (you plural).
7. That shirt really looks good on _____ (he).
8. A crow was flying directly over _____ (they).
9. An old woman came up to _____ (we).
10. Those stories were written by _____ (the girls and I).

exercise

Fill in the blank with any preposition from the list below.

about after at by for from in near of on to with

1. Three of the girls wanted to dance _____ me.
2. The artist painted a wonderful portrait _____ her.
3. _____ whom did you send the manuscript?
4. A little bird was sitting _____ it.
5. What did you put it _____?
6. I entered the building right _____ him.
7. There's a new bank _____ it.
8. The frightened dog came slowly up _____ us.

Direct and Indirect Object Pronouns in the Same Sentence

When a direct object and an indirect object are used in the same sentence and both are nouns, the indirect object (IO) always precedes the direct object (DO).

Father showed Mr. Garcia (IO) his new car (DO).

Will you give the dogs (IO) some water (DO)?

If only the indirect object is changed to a pronoun, the same word order occurs:

Father showed him (IO) his new car (DO).

Will you give them (IO) some water (DO)?

But if the direct object is changed to a pronoun, there is a significant change in the word order and the indirect object becomes the object of the preposition to or for. This occurs whether the indirect object is a noun or a pronoun. Look at these examples:

Direct Object as Noun

I sent the men some fresh coffee.

Who gave him these gifts?

We bought the girls a few flowers.

Bring me a hammer.

Direct Object as Pronoun

I sent it to the men.

Who gave them to him?

We bought them for the girls.

Bring it to me.

exercise5-1

Rewrite each sentence changing the direct object to a pronoun.

1. The magician showed us a fantastic trick.

2. Don't give the children the cookies.

3. I can't lend you the money.

4. Who sent your cousin this awful letter?

5. Tom is going to buy them a kitten.

6. The lawyer did him a favor.

7. The lonely soldier wrote his girlfriend four long letters.

8. She gave me her phone number.

9. Uncle Robert bought us a new TV.

10. Do you send them a check every week?

exercise5-2

Rewrite each sentence, changing the direct and indirect objects to pronouns.

1. The judge sent the lawyers the documents.

2. Why did you show Mary that picture?

3. I can't lend my boyfriend so much money.

4. Dr. Brown gave the nurse the surgical instruments.

5. Show the police officer your license.

6. They're going to buy their nephew several CDs.

7. Will you save Maria a seat at this table?

-----------------	------------

Rewrite each sentence, changing the italicized word or phrase to a pronoun. Make all other necessary changes.

1. Several boys were standing on the corner and laughing.

2. Someone threw a rock through that window!

3. Bill wants to buy his mother a birthday present.

4. You shouldn't speak about your brother in that terrible way.

5. Where did you buy such a beautiful necklace?

6. Ms. Smith has moved out of her apartment.

7. Do you know these women?

8. Bill and I were on our way to the party when it happened.

9. I bought you some flowers.

10. Do you want to go there with my sister and me?

11. That young lady has been elected chairperson of the committee.

12. He hates spiders.

13. Put those old clothes in the attic, please.

14. Is that tall man the new boss?

15. We love beautiful warm weather.

exercise5-4

Write three original sentences with the pronoun given in parentheses. In the first sentence, use the pronoun as a direct object. In the second sentence, use the pronoun as an indirect object. In the third sentence, use the pronoun as the object of a preposition.

1.(I) _____

2.(she) _____

3.(we) _____

4. (they) _____

5. (who) _____

A Word of Caution

You will sometimes hear native speakers use pronouns incorrectly. This is particularly true when two pronouns are used together or a noun and a pronoun are used together—for example, you and I, Tom and he.

You have seen examples in this book that show which pronouns are used as the subject of a sentence. But compare what is correct with what you might hear a native say:

Correct: Tom and she are playing baseball tomorrow.

Incorrect: Tom and her are playing baseball tomorrow.

Correct: He and I have the same birthday.

Incorrect: Him and me have the same birthday.

Similar errors occur when such phrases are used as a direct or indirect object or the object of a preposition. In order to sound loftier, some speakers “overcorrect” the pronoun and use a nominative case pronoun where an objective case pronoun is really required. This seems most prevalent with the first person singular pronoun I:

Correct: Martha gave Barbara and me a list of chores.

Incorrect: Martha gave Barbara and I a list of chores.

Correct: Did he want to speak with both you and me?

Incorrect: Did he want to speak with both you and I?

Possessive Pronouns

Just as nouns can be formed to show ownership or possession, so too can pronouns. Most nouns add an apostrophe plus an -s to show possession: John's car, the woman's dress, a winter's night. But pronouns form a completely new word. The following chart shows each subject pronoun and its possessive form.

Subject Pronoun	Possessive Pronoun 1	Possessive Pronoun 2
I	my	mine
you (singular)	your	yours
he, she, it	his, her, its	his, her, its
we	our	ours
you (plural)	your	yours
they	their	theirs
who	whose	whose

A possessive pronoun 1 is used to modify a noun. It is always used in a combination of the possessive pronoun and a noun or noun phrase. It shows to whom something belongs:

I have books. = my books

You have a car. = your car

We have money. = our money

Who has a funny hat? = whose funny hat

The third person possessive pronouns are used to replace possessive nouns:

the young man's wallet = his wallet

our daughter's party = her party

the roach's nest = its nest

my friends' new house = their new house

There is a difference in the use of the possessive pronoun 1 and 2. The possessive pronoun 2 replaces a possessive pronoun 1 and a noun when the noun is understood.

This is my glove. = This is mine.

Where is your car? = Where is yours?

That was his dinner. = That was his.

Her dog is smarter. = Hers is smarter.

Did you meet our friends? = Did you meet ours?

Their son is a sailor. = Theirs is a sailor.

exercise

6-1

Rewrite each sentence changing the possessive noun phrase to a possessive pronoun.

1. The pretty girl's brother goes to college.

2. Do you know Mr. Brown's niece?

3. The snake's hole was behind a large rock.

4. The birds' chirping woke me up early.

5. She loved the ballerina's solo.

6. I had to hold my mother's purse.

7. The old sow's piglets slept in a cool pile of mud.

8. Did you borrow your sister's skis?

9. The strikers' demands were too much for the company.

10. Where is the little puppies' bed going to be?

exercise

6-2

Fill in the blank with the possessive pronoun formed from the one in parentheses.

1. I wanted to dance with _____ (she) older sister.
2. Will you help me carry _____ (I) books up to the second floor?
3. They said _____ (you) father had been a colonel in the army.
4. _____ (We) tent was put up near a bend in the river.
5. Michael wanted to spend time at _____ (Maria and I) campsite.
6. I still haven't met _____ (they) parents.
7. _____ (Who) sailboat is that out on the lake?
8. I just can't get interested in _____ (he) novels.
9. _____ (It) roof has been replaced with cedar shingles.
10. Ms. Garcia wanted to borrow _____ (you and I) garden hose.

Demonstrative, Indefinite, and Interrogative Pronouns

Demonstrative Pronouns

It is easy to identify a demonstrative pronoun. It is a pronoun that points out the noun that is being spoken or written about. It modifies the noun like an adjective. The four demonstrative pronouns are this, that, these, and those.

This and these indicate something that is close by. This is used with singular nouns, and these is used with plural nouns:

This man is a good friend of mine. (The man is here.)

These books are on sale now. (The books are here.)

That and those indicate something that is far away. That is used with singular nouns, and those is used with plural nouns:

That woman is my teacher. (I see the woman in the distance.)

Did you see those airplanes? (Did you see the airplanes in the distance?)

exercise7-1

Using the information in parentheses, fill in the blank with the appropriate demonstrative pronoun.

1. (located next to me) I found _____ puppy behind a bush.
2. (on my lap) She thought _____ magazines were interesting.

3. (two blocks from here) _____ tall building is the city hall.
4. (in my hand) Would you like some of _____ nuts?
5. (above the city) _____ dark clouds mean a storm is coming.
6. (in another state) _____ town is about two hundred miles from here.
7. (in the apartment down the hall) Why do _____ people make so much noise?
8. (around my neck) I bought _____ necklace on sale.
9. (out in the yard) _____ swing set is just for children.
10. (back at the school) _____ boys played soccer all afternoon.

Indefinite Pronouns

The indefinite pronouns are used to refer to a person or thing that has been mentioned earlier. Their list is rather long:

all	either	neither	several another	everybody	no one	some any	everyone	nobody	somebody anybody	everything	none	someone anyone	few	nothing	something anything	many	one
both	most	other
each	much	others

Like any other pronoun, an indefinite pronoun replaces a noun, but it is usually a noun that has appeared earlier in an utterance. Look at these examples:

The children were in an accident. But all are safe and sound now.

Were the robbers finally caught? Only some of them.

Mary and Barbara were born on the same day. Yes, but each has a separate birthday party.

You need to be aware that a few of the indefinite pronouns can be used as a singular or plural: all, any, more, most, none, and some. Here are a few examples:

Singular

All is well.

Most was done by John.

Some was left on the table.

Plural

All speak English and Spanish.

Most aren't going to vote for him.

Some think she's very beautiful.

exercise

7-2

Circle the indefinite pronoun that best completes each sentence.

1. He has three brothers. Some/Much/Each served in the navy for three years.
2. I bought seven tickets. All/Something/Neither were purchased at a discount.
3. The children didn't like her, and most/none/any would play with her.
4. Nobody/Other/Either put in enough time on the project.
5. Someone/Many/Everything he said turned out to be a lie.
6. Many of them enjoyed the concert. Others/Each/Another went home early.
7. They invited a hundred guests. Much/Several/Anybody are already in the reception hall.
8. The two girls took part in the competition, but any/somebody/neither had a chance of winning.
9. Anyone/Another/Few found without proper identification will be arrested.
10. Many/Anything/Much has been said about the problem, but nothing has been done.

Interrogative Pronouns

The interrogative pronouns are who, whom, whose, which, and what. They are called interrogative because they ask a question. And like other pronouns, they replace nouns.

Who invited these people to the party? (Tom invited these people.)

Whom can I rely upon in these difficult times? (I can rely upon Tom.)

Whose was voted the best cake at the fair? (Tom's cake was voted best.)

Which is the hat you decided to buy? (I decided to buy that gray hat.)

What is he talking about? (He is talking about the theory of relativity.)

These pronouns can be separated into nominative, objective, and possessive forms:

Nominative	Objective	Possessive who	whom	whose which	which
what	what

The nominative is used as the subject of a sentence. The objective is used as the direct object, indirect object, or object of a preposition. The possessive form shows ownership. Look at these examples with who and which:

Nominative: Who rented your apartment?

Objective: Whom will they elect as president?

Possessive: Whose is the brightest child?

Nominative: Which came first, the chicken or the egg?

Objective: Which do you want to sell?

Just like indefinite pronouns, interrogative pronouns are used when the noun in question is understood.

exercise7-3

Change the italicized word or phrase to the appropriate interrogative pronoun and form a question.

1. This gentleman would like to order some dinner.

2. She found some old documents in the drawer.

3. Mr. Brown's is the fastest horse in the race.

4. They were discussing the last one.

5. Several women were talking about the coming election.

6. We met him while traveling in Mexico.

7. Maria and James spent a lot of time in the mountains.

8. They prefer the new one.

9. A long, black snake slithered across the road.

10. They received several letters from their attorney.

Numbers as Pronouns

If a pronoun is a word that replaces a noun, then a number that does the same thing can be considered a pronoun. If the number stands alone, it is no longer just a numerical value or an adjective modifying a noun. It functions as a pronoun. Look at some examples:

Number Modifying a Noun

One boy was crying.

Three kittens played with the ball.

Ten soldiers watched the enemy approach.

Number Used as a Pronoun

One felt sad but would not cry.

Three were born just a few minutes apart.

Ten fled the battlefield in fear.

Just like indefinite pronouns, numbers are used as pronouns when the noun in question is understood.

Numbers as Nouns

Careful! A number can also act as a noun. When it is a noun, the verb used is singular. When it is a pronoun, the verb is plural (except with one):

Noun: Thirteen is an unlucky number.

Pronoun: Thirteen are hiding in the brush.

Noun: One is pronounced like the word won.

Pronoun: One is still in the nest.

exercise

8-1

Rewrite each sentence changing the noun phrase to a number used as a pronoun.

1. Five little boys were playing in the mud.

2. I have eleven pairs of socks in that drawer.

3. The two older gentlemen are friends of mine.

4. One excellent suggestion came from Ms. Garcia.

5. There were five clean plates on the table a moment ago.

6. The new sales clerk sold her eight beautiful skirts.

7. Three people applied for the same job.

8. There were at least fifty pennies scattered about the floor.

The Pronoun One

Many people use the pronoun one in a more traditional or formal style. But it can be replaced by you in casual speech. Either pronoun—one or you—is used when someone does not want to use a pronoun that identifies a specific person; they are used to speak in general. If you substitute the pronoun someone for one, you will have the approximate meaning of one. Like other pronouns, one and you have four functions:

Nominative	Objective	Possessive	Reflexive
one	one	one's	oneself
you	you	your	yourself

(The reflexive will be taken up separately in Unit 11.)

Look how they are used in sentences:

FORMAL: If one believes in ghosts, one might be considered superstitious.

APPROXIMATE MEANING: If someone believes in ghosts, someone might be considered superstitious.

CASUAL: If you believe in ghosts, you might be considered superstitious.

One is a third person pronoun and, therefore, verbs used with this pronoun require the same ending as any other third person pronoun: he talks, one talks; she goes, one goes; it is, one is. But if you replaces one, the ending -s is not required in the present tense.

FORMAL: If one plays fairly, one always wins.

CASUAL: If you play fairly, you always win.

Do not confuse this special use of you with the second person pronoun you. They can be used in identical sentences, but the meaning of each sentence is different.

Second person pronoun: John, you should always wash your hands.
 Replacement for third person pronoun one: You should always wash your hands. (One should always wash one's hands. Someone should always wash his hands.)

-----------------	------------

Rewrite each sentence changing the pronoun one in each sentence to you.

1. One must have strength to carry on.

2. Should one always be on time for one's lessons?

3. If one loses one's wallet, one should report that to the police.

4. One ought to try to stay in shape.

5. When one drinks too much, one gets drunk.

6. One has little choice when it comes to love.

7. One should always behave oneself.

8. How can one be so mean to her?

9. If one has too much time on one's hands, one needs to find a job.

10. When one has humility, one also has respect.

exercise 9-2

Rewrite each sentence below twice: once with the pronoun one and once with the casual replacement pronoun you.

1. She might get into a lot of trouble.

2. If they speak slowly, they are better understood.

3. My friends ought to consider taking the train there.

4. Should he criticize his own mistakes?

5. Children learn slowly when they are very young.

6. In time, people accept their limitations.

7. If the man carries on like a fool, he'll be considered a fool.

8. When the girls get a little too heavy, they should begin to exercise.

Relative Pronouns

Two sentences can be combined by using a relative pronoun. If the same noun appears in two sentences, one of the nouns can be changed to a relative pronoun and the two sentences can be stated as one, the one with the relative pronoun being called a relative clause.

He likes the car. His father bought the car. = He likes the car that his father bought.

The English relative pronouns are:

who, whom, whose → used to replace animate nouns which → used to replace inanimate nouns that → used to replace animate or inanimate nouns

In casual speech whom is almost always replaced by who.

There is also an elliptical relative pronoun form, which omits the use of a relative pronoun entirely.

RELATIVE PRONOUN THAT: He likes the car that his father bought.

ELLIPTICAL FORM: He likes the car his father bought.

Although there are some traditional rules for choosing between that and the forms of who and which, in casual speech they are often used interchangeably:

This is the man that I told you about.

This is the man who I told you about.

The general rule for more formal usage requires using that if the relative clause is restrictive. A restrictive relative clause is one that defines or identifies the antecedent (the word to which the relative pronoun refers). Look at this example:

The house that his grandfather built many years ago burned down last night.

The relative clause (in bold type) identifies which house burned down last night. The sentence would not have the same meaning if the relative clause were omitted. The meaning of house is restricted by the information provided in the relative clause.

The relative pronouns who and which tend to be used in relative clauses that provide nonessential information. Nonrestrictive clauses are set off by commas. The meaning of the original sentence is not affected by such relative clauses:

Our mayor, who has been in office for two years, is traveling to Canada.
Some articles, which appeared in newspapers across the country, ridiculed the mayor.

In these nonrestrictive relative clauses, the mayor and the articles are not identified by the relative clauses. They do not answer the questions, Which mayor? Which articles? The sentences make complete sense when the relative clauses are omitted:

Our mayor is traveling to Canada.
Some articles ridiculed the mayor.

When changing a noun to a relative pronoun, the function of the noun must remain the function of the relative pronoun: subject, direct object, indirect object, object of a preposition, or possessive. Here are some examples that use the sentence, The boxer was the champ:

Subject: The boxer won the bout. → The boxer that won the bout was the champ.
Direct object: He knocked out the boxer. → The boxer that he knocked out was the champ.
Object of preposition: I spoke with the boxer. → The boxer that I spoke with was the champ.
Possession: The boxer's training was best. → The boxer whose training was best was the champ.

If a noun is used as an indirect object, the relative pronoun becomes the object of the preposition to or for in the relative clause:

Indirect object: I gave the boxer some good advice. → The boxer that I gave some good advice to was the champ.

When the relative pronoun is that and is the object of a preposition, the preposition must stand at the end of the clause:

We found the scientist that Professor Jones had written about.

If the relative pronoun is who(m) or which, the preposition will stand before the relative pronoun in formal style but at the end of the clause in more casual style. Notice again that nonrestrictive relative clauses are separated by commas:

Formal: It was a terrible event, about which much had been written.
Casual: It was a terrible event, which much had been written about.

Formal: The criminal, from whom they received several threats, was finally located.
Casual: The criminal, who they received several threats from, was finally located.

Use whose for the possessive of an animate. Use of which or whose for the possessive of an inanimate:

They visited their grandfather, whose farm is located in Maryland.
She bought a dreadful hat, the color of which was green.
She bought a dreadful hat, whose color was green.

The elliptical form of a relative clause occurs when the relative pronoun is a direct object or the object of a preposition. Look at these examples:

Direct object: They spoke with the thief that the police arrested yesterday.
Elliptical form: They spoke with the thief the police arrested yesterday.
Object of preposition: I found the document that you inquired about.
Elliptical form: I found the document you inquired about.

In the elliptical form of a relative pronoun used as the object of a preposition, the preposition is always at the end of the clause.

exercise10-1

Combine the pairs of sentences below with the relative pronoun that or whose. Make any necessary changes.

1. He found a puppy. The puppy needed a home.

2. Where did you put the groceries? I bought the groceries at the supermarket.

3. That's my car. My car has the convertible top.

4. There's the scientist. I told you about the scientist.

5. Do you know the woman? The woman's son is serving in the army.

6. They hired the lawyer. They got the best deal from the lawyer.

7. I need the map. The map has Cook County on it.

8. I was introduced to the girl. John was dancing with the girl.

9. Don't spend the money. I put the money on the dresser.

10. Do you know the song? I'm playing the song on the piano.

exercise

10-2

Rewrite the sentences that can be changed to the elliptical form. Be careful. Not all can be changed.

1. I lost the book that I got from Maria last week.

2. We like the dress, which was probably designed in Paris.

3. He read a sentence, which he can't understand at all.

4. I have all the documents that I was speaking of.

5. Will you give me some money, which I can use to buy new underwear?

6. The champion, who is a native of Mexico, is touring the United States.

7. He bought a used car that had been in an accident.

8. Maria wants to use the umbrella that Mom bought last week.

9. Do you understand the words that I wrote on this sheet of paper?

10. I like Uncle Henry, from whom I received a beautiful gift.

exercise

Complete each sentence with any appropriate relative clause.

1. Please show me the books _____.
2. I met the actor _____.
3. He bought a watch that _____.
4. The boss, who _____, is rather nice.
5. Where are the gifts _____?
6. This car, which _____, is from Germany.
7. I have the DVD _____.

Reflexive Pronouns

The personal pronouns have a form that is used when that form is in the objective case and is the counterpart of its personal pronoun. That form is called a reflexive pronoun. The reflexive pronouns look like this:

Subject Pronoun	Object Pronoun	Reflexive Pronoun
I	me	myself
you (singular)	you	yourself
he	him	himself
she	her	herself
it	it	itself
we	us	ourselves
you (plural)	you	yourselves
they	them	themselves
one	one	oneself

If the subject pronoun and the object pronoun refer to the same person, you should use the reflexive pronoun counterpart in the sentence. If the object pronoun refers to someone or something else, use its object pronoun form:

I suddenly saw myself in the mirror. (counterpart of I)

I suddenly saw him in the mirror. (different person)

We sometimes have to help ourselves. (counterpart of we)

We sometimes have to help them. (different persons)

Notice the difference between these pairs of sentences and the use of him and himself:

USING NOUNS: Jim accidentally hurt Jim.

USING PRONOUNS: Jim accidentally hurt himself.

USING NOUNS: Jim accidentally hurt Michael.

USING PRONOUNS: Jim accidentally hurt him.

exercise

11-1

Rewrite each sentence, changing the italicized word or phrase to the appropriate reflexive pronoun.

1. She sometimes writes stories about her friends.

2. We really enjoyed the party very much.

3. My uncle cut his little finger with a sharp knife.

4. The ugly dragon hid the bones behind a pile of stones.

5. I described the boys honestly.

6. Would you recommend this woman for the job?

7. The girls saw their reflection in the still water of the pond.

8. He didn't recognize the gentleman in his new suit of clothes.

9. A young woman was admiring the dress in the store window.

10. Maria and Juan! You've hurt him again! Shame on you!

exercise

11-2

Rewrite the following sentences with each of the pronouns given in parentheses. Use the appropriate reflexive pronouns.

1. John believes himself to be innocent.
 - a. (we) _____
 - b. (I) _____

c. (she) _____

d. (you plural) _____

2. She considers herself lucky.

a. (they) _____

b. (I) _____

c. (you singular) _____

d. (he) _____

Reciprocal Pronouns

There are only two reciprocal pronouns: each other and one another. They are never used as the subject of a sentence, and they always refer to a plural antecedent. Their use is similar to how a reflexive pronoun is used, but they refer back to two or more persons or things in a plural antecedent. Look at these examples:

Maria helps Tom. Tom helps Maria. → Maria and Tom help one another. or Maria and Tom help each other.

He loves her. She loves him. → They love one another.
or They love each other.

Two boys spoke with five girls. → They spoke with one another.
or They spoke with each other.

You saw my lesson. I saw your lesson. → You and I saw one another's lesson.
or You and I saw each other's lesson.

Notice how a possessive pronoun is changed to a possessive formed with an apostrophe -s: my lesson, your lesson = one another's lesson.

exercise

12-1

Rewrite each of the pairs of sentences as one sentence using a reciprocal pronoun.

1. My father sits next to my mother. My mother sits next to my father.

2. The soprano harmonizes with the tenor. The tenor harmonizes with the soprano.

3. The boys danced with the girls. The girls danced with the boys.

4. My boss spoke about the manager. The manager spoke about my boss.

5. St. Paul is located near Minneapolis. Minneapolis is located near St. Paul.

7. The lioness slept near the three cubs. The three cubs slept near the lioness.

8. You respect me. I respect you.

9. James sang for Maria. Maria sang for James.

10. He likes her voice. She likes his voice.

-----------------	-------------

Write three original sentences using the reciprocal pronouns in parentheses.

1. (one another)

a. _____

b. _____

c. _____

2. (each other)

a. _____

b. _____

c. _____

PART II

PREPOSITIONS

Prepositions are another category of words that, like pronouns, are sometimes underestimated. Prepositions are not simply little words that introduce a prepositional phrase such as in the room, from the top floor, near the beach, or with mother. Many prepositions have some very specific uses. Sometimes they even act as other parts of speech. They can be adverbs. Or they can be the prefix on a noun or verb. And they can combine with other words to create a completely new meaning, far different from the original meaning of the individual words.

Prepositions show the relationship between a noun or a pronoun and some other element in a sentence or phrase. Although numerous prepositions can be used in the same position in a sentence, the simple change of a preposition makes a significant change in the meaning of the sentence. Prepositions may look like insignificant little words, but in reality they have very important functions, and the effective user of English has to understand those functions.

The variety of prepositions is not great. But there are clearly defined differences between the categories of prepositions. An examination of these categories is a good place to start.

Prepositions That Indicate Location

Location can be thought of as the area, point, or surface of something. Certain prepositions indicate those locations. Here are some of the most commonly used ones:

above	in back of
along	in front of
among	in the middle of
at	near behind	next to below	on beside	over between	under in	with

Most of these prepositions make sense in the same sentence, because they all indicate location:

The boy is at the table.

The boy is behind the table.

The boy is beside the table.

The boy is next to the table.

The boy is under the table.

Besides the verb to be, which is frequently used to show location, there are several other verbs that also indicate where someone or something is:

to be found	to remain
to be located	to sit
to be situated	to stand to lie	to stay
to live

Of course, there are many other such verbs. Those in the preceding list are among the ones used frequently. Look at these examples:

Is Guadalajara located in the east or west?
 The center of the earthquake was situated near Los Angeles.
 Shells like this can be found along the banks of the river.
 John sits in front of me.
 The girl was lying on a cot and resting.
 A stranger stood next to us.
 I have to remain at my workbench until noon.
 You can stay with me.
 We live between two large houses.

As long as you know the meaning of the prepositions, you can use them with relative accuracy. But in English, just like in all other languages, certain prepositions can only be used with certain verbs or phrases. And even if two or more prepositions can be used with the same phrase, there is a change in meaning—even if it's only a slight change.

Let's look at the prepositions at and in. They are used quite commonly and have a meaning that is easy to understand. In most cases, at is used to show that someone or something is positioned next to a horizontal or vertical surface:

at the table	at the door
at the computer	at the window
at the desk	at the blackboard

The preposition in indicates that someone or something is located inside something:

in the car	in the city
in the house	in the box
in the garden	in the center

These two prepositions, while having very distinct uses in a sentence, are also often used with the same phrases. But when they are, the meanings are different.

Use at to show that someone is at the location of his or her occupation, preoccupation, or some activity:

at school	at the store	at the hospital
at the movies	at the library	at the factory

With certain phrases, in can also be used:

in school	in the store	in the hospital
in the movies	in the library	in the factory

Notice the difference in meaning between the two prepositions:

at school = Someone is on the campus of the school, perhaps inside the building, or perhaps outside the building. This person is probably a student or teacher: “The chemistry teacher was at school until 7:00 P.M.”

in school = Someone is inside the school building. This person is probably a student or teacher: “The injured student was in school again today.”

Take note of yet another difference of meaning when the definite article the is added to the phrase:

at the school = Someone is on the campus of the school, perhaps inside the building, or perhaps outside the building. This person is not necessarily a student or teacher: “The landscaper was at the school to plant some new shrubs.”

in the school = Someone is inside the school building. This person is not necessarily a student or teacher: “My father was in the school for a meeting.”

There are several phrases that omit the definite article the when the preposition at is involved. Such phrases indicate that someone is involved in the activity described in the phrase:

He’s at work. = He is working.

They’re at church. = They’re attending a religious ceremony.

The children are at play. = The children are playing.

She’s at home. = She is staying in her house.

Tom’s at lunch. = Tom is eating lunch. (also used with breakfast, dinner, and supper)

He’s at class. = He is attending a class.

In general, at indicates that someone is involved in an activity at a location. In says that someone is inside that location:

The students are at school. (They are on campus somewhere.)

The students are in school. (They are in the building in their classes.)

Father is at the hospital. (Father is visiting. Or he may be a doctor or nurse.)

Father is in the hospital. (Father is a patient. Or he was outside. Now he’s inside.)

Maria is at the factory. (She probably works there.)

Maria is in the factory. (She was outside. Now she’s inside.)

Mom is at the store. (She is shopping there. Or perhaps she works there.)

Mom is in the store. (She was outside. Now she’s inside.)

Be sure to distinguish between the prepositions among and between. Use among to say that you are in the company of more than just two people. Use between to say that you are in the company of only two people:

He sat among the members of the tribe and told them stories.

My sister sat between Jim and me.

Another pair of prepositions is often used to show “by means of what transportation” a person travels. It is common to use the preposition by to show the concept of traveling in a conveyance: I went by car. We travel by plane. They go by train. But in and on are also often used to show location on the forms of transportation:

We were in the car ready to leave for vacation.
 They're on a train somewhere in Oregon.
 What bus were you on?
 Haven't you ever been on a plane before?

exercise13-1

Select the preposition that best completes each sentence.

1. A tiny rabbit was hiding under/with/on a bush.
2. Please don't sit at/next to/over me.
3. We saw several baby birds at/behind/in a nest in that tree.
4. There was nothing below/with/among the plane but empty space.
5. Father stays on/above/at the factory until 5:00 P.M.
6. An angry man stood directly with/in the middle of/at us.
7. John stayed between/beside/among me the entire time.
8. I saw Maria in back of/above/among the many people at the party.
9. There was a huge bug sitting on/with/at my bed!
10. I saw a stranger crouching above/between/at my car and the truck.

exercise13-2

Fill in the blank with any appropriate word or phrase.

1. I saw a jet flying above _____.

Prepositions That Indicate Movement or Direction

The prepositions in this category do not suggest where someone or something is located. Instead, they describe someone's or something's movement or direction. Below is a list of some commonly used prepositions for this concept:

along	off
at	on by	onto from	out of
in	to
into	toward(s)

There are two forms of this preposition: toward and towards. Both are acceptable.

Certain verbs tell you that a preposition is being used to show location: to be, to be located, to sit, and many more. Certain other verbs tell you that a preposition is being used to show movement or direction. Here are some important ones:

to come	to journey
to drive	to jump
to fall	to return
to fly	to run
to go	to travel
to hurry	to walk

Just like prepositions that show location, a variety of prepositions that show movement or direction can be used in the same sentence. The basic sentence remains the same, but the preposition alters the kind of movement or direction involved. Look at these example sentences:

The women walked along the river.
 The women walked from the river.
 The women walked into the river.
 The women walked out of the river.
 The women walked to the river.
 The women walked toward the river.

You need to be aware of the difference between to and toward. The preposition to says that someone is going in the direction of a place and will arrive there soon:

John is going to the park.

The preposition toward means that someone is going in the direction of a place but may decide to change direction:

John is going toward the park. (But he may decide to turn left and go to the bank instead.)

The prepositions in and on are used to show location. But they are also used to show movement or direction. Traditionally, only into and onto are used to show movement or direction, but many people today use in and on in place of them:

She runs into the house. She runs in the house.
 He fell onto the floor. He fell on the floor.

If you consider the phrase She runs in the house literally, it means that a girl is inside a house and running. But English speakers know what is meant by this sentence from the context of the conversation where that sentence was used. So in casual speech you will hear both in and into and on and onto used interchangeably.

Prepositions That Indicate Time

There are several prepositions that are used in expressions of time:

after	from
at	in before	on by	since during	to
for	until

These prepositions are used with a variety of moments in time and in phrases that answer the question when. Some, such as at, on, in and for, have a limited use.

The preposition at is used primarily to point out an event in time or a time shown on a clock:

at dawn, at dusk, at daybreak, at holiday time, at lunchtime, at midnight, at the end of the day, at 4:30 P.M., at 11:55 A.M.

The soldiers finally got back at dawn.

On is used primarily with days of the week and dates:

on Monday, on Tuesday, on Wednesday, on Thursday, on Friday, on Saturday, on Sunday, on June twelfth, on the fifteenth of May We're starting a new project on the first of the month.

Use in for a nonspecific time of a day, of a month, of a year, or of a season:

in the morning, in January, in 2001, in summer

We like going camping in autumn.

Use for with a specific event in time:

for Christmas, for the holidays, for your birthday party, for the celebration
I'll be there for your baby's christening.

Most other prepositions can be used in many varied expressions of time:

She can be here by five o'clock.
I want to speak with you before the end of the day.
He works every day from dawn to dusk.
The drought has continued since last June.
We spend a lot of time in Mexico during the winter months.
Tom won't come home until next year.
Maria went out to dinner after work yesterday.

From and to are usually used in the same sentence to show a long period of time. Until often replaces to:

He worked here from 1997 to 2002.
She'll be in Europe from June until August.

Compound Prepositions

When two or more words are strung together and end with to, of, or sometimes from, they are called compound prepositions. They function like all other prepositions. The only difference is that they are composed of more than a single word. Here is a list of the compound prepositions:

according to	in reference to ahead of	in regard to apart from	in spite of
because of	instead of
by means of	on account of
by way of	out of
in back of	up to
in front of	with respect to

Look at their use in a sentence and at the meaning that is derived:

Use in a Sentence	Meaning

Prepositions That Combine with Other Words

Adverbs modify verbs and answer the questions where, when, and how of the action of the verb:

The sick girl remained upstairs. → Where did the sick girl remain?

The books arrived today. → When did the books arrive?

Bill ran slowly. → How did Bill run?

Often prepositions combine with another word to form a commonly used adverb. Prepositions in this form are frequently used as prefixes. Look at these examples:

Adverb	Meaning
by and by	soon
by and large	mostly, generally downstairs	one floor below indoors	in a building
inside	in the interior
outdoors	in the open air
outside	in the out-of-doors
underwater	beneath the surface of the water up-country	toward the interior of the land uphill	going up an incline
upstairs	one floor above
uptown	toward the center of the town

Sometimes the combination of a preposition and another word forms a noun:

Noun	Meaning
bylaw	an organization's rule
bypass	a detour
downfall	collapse, ruin
infield	the inner playing area in baseball insight	understanding
outbreak	sudden or violent appearance
outgrowth	something that grows out of something else outline	a preliminary or general plan
outlook	view, foresight
underarm	the area under the arm beneath the shoulder
underclassman	a freshman or sophomore in a school underwear	garments worn under the clothes
upheaval	something rising up suddenly or violently
uproar	violent noise, tumult

At other times the combination of a preposition and another word results in a verb:

Verb	Meaning
install	establish or place in position
intone	recite in a monotone, give inflection
outdo	exceed, surpass
outline	draw the border, sketch
outlive	live longer than someone else
undergo	bear up under stress and survive
upgrade	raise to a higher level uphold	raise, support, encourage upset	overturn or disquiet someone

Adjectives are also formed in this way:

Adjective	Meaning
bygone	from a past time
down-and-out	poor or hopeless
downcast	looking downward or in low spirits
downhearted	discouraged, dejected
ingrown	having grown into the flesh
inland	land away from the sea together	with each other, jointly underage	not of legal age
undercover	secret, engaged in spying
upstanding	respectable, honest
up-to-date	modern, fashionable

The four preceding lists are only a small sampling of the many words that are derived from a preposition combining with another word. When you encounter such words, it is sometimes possible to analyze the meaning of the preposition and the meaning of the word with which it has been combined in order to determine the meaning of the new word. Consider these examples:

(up = rising upward + grade = level) = to upgrade (to raise to a higher level)
 (down = going downward + fall = stumble) = downfall (collapse, ruin)

Keeping this in mind, you can sometimes guess the meaning of new words that are formed when a preposition is used as a prefix.

Participial Prepositions

This is a small category of prepositions but one that has some important uses. The present participial form of certain verbs, although not true prepositions, sometimes have the characteristic of a preposition and are used as one. Present participles are formed by adding -ing to the verb: go → going, sing → singing, buy → buying, etc.

Only certain present participles can act as prepositions:

concerning	following considering	regarding excluding

Their use as a preposition is different from their use as a verb form. Take careful note of the differences:

This is concerning to me. = participle used as an adjective

He often wrote me concerning this problem. = preposition (about this problem)

The club was considering buying new equipment. = present participle

The group spent hours considering this issue. = preposition (on this issue)

Why are you excluding our old friends? = present participle

We shall meet every Tuesday excluding the first Tuesday in May. = preposition (except the first Tuesday in May)

An old woman was following us. = present participle

The show will go on following one more rehearsal. = preposition (after one more rehearsal)

Do you have details regarding this case? = participle used as an adjective

She finally spoke up regarding her son's behavior. = preposition (about her son's behavior)

exercise18-1

Rewrite each sentence changing the italicized preposition to a participial preposition.

1. We'll need to put in a lot of time on this problem.

2. I had a lot to tell about the crimes he had committed.

3. I wanted to speak to her about our future together.

4. Maria passed every test except the one in math.

5. The picnic will go on as planned after the rainstorm.

exercise18-2

Write two original sentences with the words in parentheses. One should contain a present participle; the other should contain a present participle used as a preposition.

1. (concerning)

2. (considering)

3. (excluding)

4. (following)

Postpositive Prepositions

This is another very small category of prepositions. They are derived from the shortened form of the preposition toward, which is -ward. Postpositive means that the prepositional form -ward occurs as a suffix. Notice how often another preposition acts as the prefix (up, down, in, out). Look at these examples:

backward	landward
downward	leeward
forward	outward
heavenward	seaward homeward	upward
inward	windward

The points on a compass can also be combined with this suffix: westward, eastward, northward, southward, southeastward.

In each case, the word is adjectival or adverbial and means in the direction of. For example:

heavenward = in the direction of heaven

homeward = in the direction of home

seaward = in the direction of the sea

Two words that may be unfamiliar to you are leeward and windward. They do not conform precisely to the general meaning of this category of words. Leeward means the direction in which the wind is blowing. Windward means the direction from which the wind is coming.

Here are some sample sentences with each of these new words:

He walked backward without tripping.

When he looked downward, he saw a valley.

Tom moved forward a little in the crowded bus.

The balloons slowly rose heavenward.

Tomorrow I'm homeward bound!
You have to look inward to understand yourself.
The little boat drifted landward.
We sailed leeward into the sunset.
His outward appearance is good, but he's a nasty man.
Our ship moved seaward out of the little harbor.
When I looked upward, I saw the streaks of pink in the sky.
A steamer can travel windward with ease.
The troops marched westward toward the front lines.

-----------------	-------------

Write two original sentences with the words in parentheses.

1. (backward)

2. (downward)

3. (homeward)

4. (inward)

5. (upward)

6. (windward)

7. (eastward)

Words That Require a Specific Preposition

Prepositions have a precise use. They cannot be used randomly but rather serve a particular function. As already discussed, some show a location. Others indicate a movement or a direction. In fact, there are some words and phrases that require a specific preposition in order to achieve the proper meaning. For example, you have to use the preposition in with the words interested or interest. Other prepositions make no sense:

CORRECT: I'm very interested in computer technology.

INCORRECT: Have you always been interested about classical music?

CORRECT: She shows no interest in such things.

INCORRECT: Tom has a great deal of interest of sports.

The same is true with many other words, most of which appear in verb phrases. Here is a list of commonly used expressions that require a specific preposition:

to ask for	to long for
to be alarmed by	to look after to be capable of	to look at
to be generous with	to look for to be interested in/interest in	to look forward to to be sure of	to plead for/plea for to beg for	to rely (up) on to belong to	to speak about/of
to care about	to think about/of
to care for	to wait for to depend (up) on to dream about/of to forget about to hope for to listen to

to walk up to to watch over to wish for to worry about most passive structures + by Several phrases use the preposition for to complete their meaning. Whatever follows the preposition becomes the object of the preposition and forms a prepositional phrase. Look at the examples that follow:

Juan asked for a second helping of potatoes. (ask for = request)
 The dog begged for a treat.
 Maria is caring for her sick mother. (care for = tend to)
 Jim really cares for Barbara. (care for = feel affection)
 The crowd was hoping for a win, but the team lost.
 Their family longed for a vacation in Europe.
 They spent hours looking for the lost kitten.
 She pleaded with the judge for mercy.
 The lawyer made a brilliant plea for justice in this case.
 How long do we have to wait for a bus?
 The little boy wished for a new bicycle.

There are many phrases that begin with to be. They usually include an adjective or a participle, and each one requires the use of a specific preposition:

The woman was suddenly alarmed by the threat of a storm.
 I didn't think you were capable of such a terrible thing.
 Mr. Garcia is always so generous with his time.
 She's not interested in old movies.
 I'm developing an interest in science.
 How can you be sure of what to do next?

Phrases that require to:

That red car belongs to me. (belongs to = ownership)
 Tom wants to belong to our sports club. (belong to = membership)
 I listened to the speaker's remarks with great interest.
 Everyone is looking forward to the start of vacation.
 A beautiful woman walked up to me and shook my hand.

Phrases that require about:

My brother cares a lot about his girlfriend.
 Last night I dreamt about our trip to Alaska.
 She says she'll never forget about me.
 You shouldn't speak about such things!
 It seems I'm always thinking about food.
 My parents still worry about my sister and me.

Phrases that require on or upon:

You can always depend (up) on us.
 There's no one here that I can rely (up) on.

Phrases that require of. Notice that these phrases are often the same ones that use about:

The dog seemed to be dreaming of chasing a rabbit.
 Someone was speaking of the new boss's bad temper.
 Guess what I'm thinking of.

The verb to look forms two new expressions with the prepositions after (meaning "to care for") and at:

The men stayed home to look after the children.
 They were looking upward at the stars in the sky.

When the verb watch is combined with the preposition over, it means "to tend to" and "to protect":

The shepherd watched over the nervous flock of sheep.

When an active sentence is changed to a passive sentence, the subject of the active sentence becomes the object of the preposition by in the passive sentence:

Active: A thief stole the wallet.
 Passive: The wallet was stolen by the thief.

Here are a few more examples of sentences in the passive voice:

Active: A raging fire destroyed the house.
 Passive: The house was destroyed by a raging fire.

Active: The proud father tucks the little girl into bed.
 Passive: The little girl is tucked into bed by the proud father.

Active: The chief of police himself had warned them.
 Passive: They had been warned by the chief of police himself.

Active: Will a new chef prepare dinner?
 Passive: Will dinner be prepared by a new chef?

Prepositions and Phrasal Verbs

This is a very large category of verbal expressions that use prepositions to change the meaning of a verb. It is different from the ordinary combination of a verb and a preposition because the verb-plus-preposition phrase as a whole acquires a completely new meaning and one that is often radically different from the original meaning of the verb.

Here are a few sentences with the verb to come used with its regular meaning. Each one has a prepositional phrase in it, but the meaning of to come is not changed:

These young people come from Spain.

He came into the room and sat down.

Come with me, please.

Now look at these sentences with to come and a preposition. The meaning of the verb to come is changed:

The man came to after a few minutes. (He regained consciousness.)

Tom finally came around and signed the contract. (He changed his mind.)

How did you come up with this idea? (How did you create this idea?)

Verbs that change their meaning when combined with one or more prepositions are called phrasal verbs. They are numerous in English and are an important element of grammar. It is essential to identify them and to be able to understand the new meanings that are derived by their formation. Let's look at some important phrasal verbs.

Ask

The regular verb to ask means “to pose a question” or “to make a request.” That meaning is altered when the verb is combined with certain prepositions. In phrasal verbs those prepositions are sometimes called particles. You will notice that the particle-prepositions are often used as adverbs.

The phrasal verb to ask around means “to seek information from a variety of sources.” The particle about is sometimes used in place of around:

I asked around about the new girl and learned she was from Poland.

Ask around and you’ll learn where you can rent a cheap apartment.

Ask about and you’ll discover where there’s a nice place to eat.

The phrasal verb to ask out has changed its meaning again. It now means “to invite someone to go somewhere” or “to invite on a date.” It suggests that someone is romantically interested in another person:

John asked Maria out, but she refused.

I was too shy to ask her out.

The handsome man was asked out by his friend’s cousin.

Be

You are already familiar with the verb to be. It shows the existence of someone or something (They are here.) or helps to describe a condition or quality (I am old.). It is an irregular verb and is the only English verb that has a complex conjugation in the present and past tenses:

Present		Past
I am	we are	I was	we were you are	you are	you were	you were he, she, it is	they are	he, she, it was	they were

Its participle is been: I have been, you have been, he has been, and so on.

The verb to be is also used as an auxiliary with a present participle to show a continuing action:

I am singing.

You were writing.

They have been studying.

Tom will be working.

But the meaning of the verb is altered when it is used in certain phrases. Let’s look at some examples of phrasal verbs formed from this verb.

The verb to be in has a very specific meaning. It says that someone is at home or available at the office:

I’m in for the night.

Is Dr. Jones in this afternoon?

Tell my client that I won’t be in until eight in the morning.

The opposite of to be in is to be out. It says that someone is not at home or not available at the office:

John is out and won't be home until late.

I believe Dr. Jones is out for the day. He'll be in the office at 8:00 A.M. tomorrow.

In the phrasal verb to be on, only the preposition on has been added, but the meaning is completely changed by it. This verb means that some apparatus, machinery, or equipment is functioning. It is the opposite of to be off:

Press the green button, and the machine is on. Press the red button, and the machine is off.

It's hot in here. Is the air conditioning on?

The engine is so quiet that I can't tell if it is on.

Use to be out of sight to say that you can no longer see someone or something or that someone or something is no longer in your range of vision:

He ran up the hill and was soon out of sight.

In a couple more minutes the ship will be out of sight.

The rocket was out of sight in just a matter of seconds.

The verb to be with it has two specific meanings. One describes a person who is very contemporary and in fashion. The other suggests that a person is in a good state of mind and is thinking properly:

Mary has another new dress. She is always so with it.

Your hairdo is old fashioned. Why can't you be more with it?

John drank a lot last night and isn't with it today.

I forget everything. I'm just not with it anymore.

Use to be onto something to say that someone is discovering something important or has an important idea. It also suggests that someone has found a clue that will help to solve a problem:

What a great invention! You're really onto something!

I read her article about stopping pollution. I think she's onto something.

Look at the map I found. We're finally onto something that will help to find the treasure.

The verb to be up to something says that someone looks suspicious and has some kind of evil intentions. It is sometimes stated as to be up to no good:

What's that man doing? I think he's up to something.

I knew you were up to something when I saw you holding a shovel.

Her children are always up to no good.

Come

You're already familiar with this verb of motion that means "to approach, to move toward, or to arrive." Its conjugation is irregular and has these principal parts:

	Present	Past	Present Perfect	Future
you	come	came	have come	will come
he, she, it	comes	came	has come	will come

Four distinct meanings are derived from the phrasal verb to come through (for) (with): (1) to endure or survive, (2) to be approved by some official body or institution, (3) to perform a helpful service for someone, and (4) to produce something that has been promised. Check these examples:

Somehow they came through the storm without a scratch.
 Your loan came through and you'll receive a check in the mail.
 Mom always came through for me whenever I had a problem.
 Tom will never come through with the money he promised.

With the particle to, come to has a simple new meaning: to become conscious again or to wake up:

Her eyes opened and she slowly came to.
 The old man fell asleep and never came to again.

The verb to come up with means "to find someone or something that someone needs." Look at these examples:

I'll try to come up with a piano player for your party.
 She came up with another good idea.

The phrasal verb to come upon means "to happen upon someone or something." The particle on is sometimes used in place of upon:

When she comes on her brother, she'll have the shock of her life.
 I came upon an interesting book in the library.

Get

This complicated verb has two basic meanings: "to receive" and "to become." But it is used in many other phrases and its meaning is altered each time. It's irregular and has these principal parts:

	Present	Past	Present Perfect	Future
you	get	got	have gotten	will get he, she, it	gets	got	has gotten	will get

In this form, to get back (at) has two new meanings: (1) to return from someplace, and (2) using the preposition at, to seek revenge upon a person or group. Look at these examples:

When did you get back from Mexico?
 He said he'd get back at you for lying about him.
 The terrorist wanted to get back at the government.

To get behind (in) has two meanings: (1) to promote or support someone or some activity, and (2) using the preposition in, to be late or lagging behind in performing a task. Here are some examples:

You have to get behind your candidate, if you want him to win the election.
 I'm getting behind in my work again.
 If you get behind in your exercising, you'll put on weight again.

To get in on means “to participate in an event or to receive a share in something because of that participation.” Some examples:

You’ll need an invitation, if you want to get in on the conference.

I got in on the deal to sell farming equipment in Canada.

The phrase to get into it doesn’t reveal what it means by the makeup of the words. Its new meaning is “to have an argument or a fight.” Look at these examples:

John got into it with another driver over a parking space.

My parents always get into it over money.

In this form the phrasal verb to get off has two meanings: (1) often using the preposition of, to depart from your job, and (2) to have a person cleared of criminal wrongdoing. Some examples:

I got off early and came straight home.

What time will you get off of work tomorrow?

The clever lawyer got the burglar off with a small fine.

I’m innocent! You have to get me off!

Phrasal Verbs as Participles

The phrasal verbs to get back, to get into, and to get off can act as the participle in a passive voice sentence:

Her jewelry was never gotten back.

The room was gotten into by a clever thief.

The crook was gotten off by a shrewd lawyer.

With the particle on, to get on (with) has three meanings: (1) to cooperate and thrive with somebody, (2) often with the phrase in years it means to grow old, and (3) using the preposition with, to continue with something. Some examples:

The two former enemies seemed to be getting on without a problem.

My grandparents are getting on in years.

The crisis is over. Now we have to get on with our lives.

Keep

This is an irregular verb that means "to retain, maintain, or cause to continue." Look at its principal parts:

	Present	Past	Present Perfect	Future
you	keep	kept	have kept	will keep he, she, it	keeps	kept	has kept	will keep

Followed by a present participle, to keep on (with) means “to continue doing something.” Using the preposition with followed by a noun or pronoun, it also means “to continue doing something.” Look at these examples:

The professor told the students to keep on studying.

The professor told the students to keep on with their studies.

To keep out (of) has three meanings: (1) to stay outside a place, (2) to remain neutral about something as in “minding one’s own business,” and (3) to stop someone from entering a place:

Keep out! This means you!

I want you to keep out of my office when I’m working.

Keep out of this! This is none of your business!

I want you to keep Ms. Johnson out of our meeting.

Three new meanings are derived by using to keep to (oneself): (1) to maintain an agreed-upon plan or promise, and (2) to remain withdrawn and alone. If you add something to the phrase (to keep something to oneself), it has a third meaning: “to maintain a secret.” Some examples:

If we keep to our original plan, we’ll achieve our goals.

The old woman kept more and more to herself.

Please keep this information to yourself. Don’t tell anyone.

The phrasal verb to keep up (with) also has three meanings: (1) to hold someone or something upright, (2) to prevent a person from falling asleep, and (3) using the preposition with, to remain equal with someone or something. Look at these examples:

Keep him up. Don’t let him fall.

He’s very sleepy, but somehow we have to keep Jim up until midnight.

I can’t keep up with you. Walk slower.

Kick

Kick is a regular verb and means “to strike with a foot.” Look what happens to its meaning when it becomes a phrasal verb.

The phrasal verb to kick off means “to start something” and comes from the start of a football game, which is the kickoff. It has a colloquial meaning that is casual and somewhat crude: “to pass away or die.” This second meaning is used without compassion:

Let’s kick off the meeting with a few words from Ms. Johnson.

The poor old man kicked off during the night.

In this form the verb to kick out (of) means “to evict someone or eject something from a place”:

Maria kicked out her boyfriend last night.

I kicked the boxes out of my way.

Knock

This verb is regular. It means “to strike, hit, or rap.”

With the particle down, to knock down means “to hit someone or something to the ground.” Here are some examples:

The bully knocked me down and ran off laughing.
The wind is going to knock down that old fence.

In this form the verb to knock off (it, work) derives a few new meanings: (1) to stop doing something, (2) using the pronoun it to make a rather rude meaning, “to cease a certain behavior,” (3) as a slang expression, “to murder a person,” and (4) using the noun work, “to conclude the day’s work.” As a noun—knockoff—the word means “an imitation.” Some examples:

You can knock off digging. The plans have been changed.
Knock it off! Acting like that isn’t funny!
The gangsters knocked off an old enemy.
My father usually knocks off work around 6:00 P.M.
He wanted a Rolex but bought a knockoff from a street vendor.

Look at the meanings that are derived for the verb to knock out: (1) to cause someone to become unconscious, (2) to develop or make something quickly, and (3) to cause something to stop functioning.

Bill hit the man so hard that he knocked him out.
That drink almost knocked me out.
The workers knocked out a prototype in a matter of hours.
A lightning strike knocked out the radio station.

Phrasal Verbs That Act as Nouns

The phrasal verbs to kick off, to knock off, and to knock out have a noun formation:

Put

To put is an irregular verb and means “to place or set.” Its principal parts look like this:

	Present	Past	Present Perfect	Future
you	put	put	have put	will put he, she, it	puts	put	has put	will put

The phrasal verb to put down (for) has four new meanings: (1) to cease holding someone or something up, (2) to ridicule or demean someone or something, (3) to write down, and (4) using the preposition for, to sign someone up to participate in something. Look at these examples:

I don't want you to carry me. Put me down!
 I try very hard, but still you put me down. I can't do any better.
 The stenographer put down every word the lawyer said.
 Tim likes soccer. You can put him down for that.

In this form the verb to put on has three meanings: (1) to place on headgear or wear a certain garment, (2) to pretend, and (3) to tease someone. Some examples:

The woman put on a new hat and dress and went to the party.
 He's not really sick. He's just putting on.
 It can't be true! You're putting me on! Anna is married again?

This phrasal verb to put out (oneself, of) also has various new meanings: (1) to generate an abundance of something (often used as a noun: output), (2) to annoy a person, (3) using a reflexive pronoun, to allow oneself to be inconvenienced or to do a favor for someone, and (4) to eject someone or something from a place.

That new copy machine really puts out.
 What's the total output of this department each month?
 Professor Jones was really put out by all the silly questions.
 I really put myself out for you. Is this the thanks I get?
 Please put the dog out. I can't stand his barking.

To put up (with) has three new meanings: (1) to provide someone with housing (usually for one night), (2) to erect, and (3) using the preposition with, to tolerate someone or something:

It's storming. We had better put you up for the night.
 We always put up the Christmas tree in early December.
 I can't put up with your lying and cheating anymore.

Quiet

Quiet is a regular verb that means “to make calm or silent.” As a phrasal verb its meaning changes only slightly.

To quiet down means “to become calm or silent” or “to make someone calm or silent.” Here are some examples:

As the grieving woman came in, the room suddenly quieted down.
 Give the man a shot to quiet him down.

Rest

To rest is another regular verb. It means “to relax and enjoy an idle moment.”

In the form to rest up (from), the meaning of the verb is not altered greatly. With the particle up, the suggestion is that the goal is to rest completely and not just for a moment. With the preposition from you can tell what activity is avoided to provide rest:

You're exhausted. I want you to rest up and leave everything else to me.
I ache all over. I need to rest up from all this exercising.

exercise21-7

Select the word or phrase that best completes each sentence.

You always take on too much work.
 If you take on Bill, he'll work as hard as two men.
 Anna often takes on about the death of her husband.

The verb to take over (from) has four new meanings: (1) to take control of a business, (2) to accept responsibility for something, (3) to deliver something, and (4) using the preposition from, to assume control of something from someone. Some examples:

The corporation took over two smaller companies.
 Can you take over the Johnson account? They need someone like you.
 I took the CD player over to Maria's house.
 We're taking over the travel agency from Mr. Gomez.

Another phrasal verb with a variety of meanings is to take up (with, on). It means (1) to raise the hem of a garment, (2) often using the preposition with, to discuss a person or issue, (3) to be involved in a special skill or hobby, (4) using the preposition with, to have an affair with someone, (5) using the preposition on, to agree to someone's proposal or offer. Look at these examples:

7. (to quiet down)

8. (to knock off)

You have had only a small sampling of phrasal verbs and the prepositions that help to form them. It is important to recognize phrasal verbs in order to determine their actual meaning. Frequently, someone who is learning English assumes the meaning of a sentence knowing the meaning of the basic verb in that sentence. But the verb could be a phrasal verb and, therefore, the meaning might escape the learner.

When you identify a phrasal verb in a sentence, look it up in a good dictionary. In the submeanings of the basic verb are often frequently used phrasal verbs. Here is a sample dictionary entry:

come verb (came, come, coming) 1. to move to a place; to move here; to approach. 2. to arrive; to be present. -to come about 1. to happen or take place. 2. to turn to the opposite tack, as of a ship. -to come to 1. to revive; to regain consciousness. 2. to amount to

You will notice that to come about and to come to are both phrasal verbs, and the meaning of the phrases differ considerably from the meaning of the basic verb come. It is unwise to guess at the meaning of phrasal verbs. Rely on a good dictionary.
